Appointment of Ionel POP as Managing Director of Foxstream

On Monday June 12, 2023, Ionel POP was appointed Managing Director of Foxstream (Vitaprotech Group), a Vaulx-en-Velin-based company specializing in video analysis and intrusion detection.

Ionel POP joined Foxstream in 2007 as part of his doctoral thesis that he obtained in 2010. He then progressed within the company, first as an R&D Engineer, then as Head of Development and finally as R&D Director, before being appointed Managing Director in June 2023. His experience within Foxstream, and his expertise in particular in the fields of data, cloud and artificial intelligence, will enable Foxstream to pursue the implementation of an ambitious growth strategy, responding to the challenges and changes in the security markets, and aligned with the development prospects of the Vitaprotech Group.

This change in management is part of a drive to give new international impetus to Foxstream, already a key player in France in the protection of sensitive sites, thanks to its video-analysis intrusion detection solutions for site security.

About Foxstream

Foxstream, a software company founded in 2004, specializes in the automatic, real-time analysis and processing of video image content (Video Content Analysis).

Foxstream solutions extract, transmit and store relevant information from video images, for perimeter protection (intrusion), flow management (counting, waiting times, etc.) or video protection. Foxstream solutions can be integrated with the market's leading supervision software, enabling users to increase the efficiency of their video systems while reducing operating costs.

About Vitaprotech

Backed by Seven2 and BPI, the Vitaprotech group is positioning itself as a leader in the security market, thanks to its comprehensive, consolidated offering for securing physical access to professional and sensitive sites (development and manufacture of hardware and software solutions for intrusion detection, access control and intelligent monitoring). The group is pursuing its ambitious development strategy both in France and internationally, with the aim of becoming a world-class reference in the security sector.

Vitaprotech employs over 450 people in 13 companies worldwide, and has forecast sales of over €82 million for 2022. www.vitaprotech.com
